HUNGKONG, JANUARY 31st, 1880.

Tur lengthy speech of His Excollency the GOVERNOR at the Government Central School was chiefly explanatory of past events, the engines were started ahead full speed and He paid a well deserved tribute to the merits and services of the Head Master, Dr. | against a head heavy sea. The steamer was STEWART, and went to some pains to show built to the order of Mr. Kwok Asheong by that he fully appreciated that hardworking official and had given proof of recognition of gether by Mr. W. B. Spratt. The ongines were his merits by making him Acting Colonial constructed by Mr. A. Mr. HENNESSY also went on to owner's steamer Kinny Chow. remark that he hoped at a no distant date to place Dr. STEWART at the head of the Education Department, making him not only Inspector of Schools generally but Inspector of the Central School likewise. The present arrangement was, he admitted, a purely provi- afternoon. There were present Hon. W. Keswick sional one, as he had applied to the Secretary (Chairman), Messrs, W. Reiners, E. B. There is no doubt of the desimbility of teaching English to the Chinese of this colony, but we doubt whether His Excellency does not expect too large results from such a diffusion of knowledge. It will take, we imagine, a great deal of instruction and at least another generation to produce an Anglo-Chinese element of appreciable influence in the native population. The Chinese are very slow to cast aside their own traditions or to take to fresh customs, and the contiguity of the neighbouring province will always be certain to prevent the leaven of Western teaching and ideas from penetrating very deeply into the mass of prejudice that has to be overcome. Even the Chinese speaking people in the Straite, though they are sufficiently far removed from China to be under no anprehension of mandarin interference, still cling to the enstome of the Celestial Empire with wonderful tenacity. PRA PRICHA'S CASE. COMMUNICATED!

I, and many others in Bangkok, have read with indignation the attack made upon the King of Siam in your issue of about 16th December. The article in question is a mixture of truth and falsehood and must have been written by a person who himself knew nothing except from the representation of prejudicad paragus whose object it was to villify the King's character. If you notice. many of the accumutions are exceedingly illogical. For instance Ilis Majosty is represented as a mere proper in the hands of the ex-Regent, but for all that he is unhesitatingly condemned to bear the odium of every wrong done, or imagined to be done.

There is no excuse for this on the ground of the ex-Regent's absence from Bangkok, as his country house, where he chiefly resides, is within six hours call from the capital, If the King is the mere tool we are led to believe, how came he to withstand so firmly Mr. Knox's offer of friendship, which would have had its advantages? Does it not incline any impartial mind to imagine there wast have been greater grounds for dissatisfaction on His Majesty's part than the mere remembrance of friendly advise given years before? Would one not hotter beable to realize the feeling, had Mr. Knox been represented as a perpetual interferer and unjustifiable thwarter of His Majosty whenever possible?

There is every reason to believe that Pra Pricha only got bis deserts, and the worst that can be truly said is that his sentence was severe. but not bruel. But for the fact of his baving married Miss Kuox, we should have heard nothing of the case, and as it is no one thinks of his other widows, who were his wives and the mothers of his children-long before Miss Knox. With reference to the other case brought against His Majesty, the father of Pra Prichs, sentenced the Minister of Agriculture for n similar offence to degradation, forfeiture, and imprisonment for life.

As for the " King standing alone, estranged from all," &co., the statement is simply false, and before unheard of. Had your correspondent taken the trouble to enquire, he would have found that His Majesty is a great favorite oven among Europeans, which Mr. Knox never had the

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objests in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of. space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins terized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration .- Hall, Master, will load here for the above Port Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about .16,000 and will have quick despatch. Chinese characters, and Medharst's English this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub.

lished. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its THE Al British Bark pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect | Mackensie, Master, will load here and at Whamthemselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable pocasion-

I have hunted with some of the bravest men, the best scouts, and the most famous hunters in the West, and I found that they also had heavy tones as rule; and deduced from this that the highest order of animals, those that were brave and daring, were always deep in voice, and that their intonations never jarred on the ear. When I saw that the beroes in an opera were the tenors, it struck me as an odd idea that thin-voiced animals were seldom so courageons in actual life as their deepertoned congeners, and this has caused me to express it here to see if it is in any way tures in the Far West," by J. # GERMAN SCHOOL-BOY LIFE,

They game up to live in worlds of their own creation, in ideas and theories which are not brought to the test of practical experience. It is the " faculty " of common sense, which is cultivated with distinguished success i our playgrounds, which redeems the English schools from the sentence of utter badness which they would otherwise deserve. And it. is the absence of this "faculty" in the German prospectus which vitiates so much of the excellent teaching imparted. Better give the pupils a good playground and confine them daily for three hours within its barriers than seat them for the same time before a blackboard to study the theory of political and it takes all their energies out of them. reason-or one principal reason-why they do so is because from early childhood it is the Day of Judgment looming before the of youth, before entering on manhood, comes i the terrible day which irrevocably fixes their -fate. Unless they issue from that examination with a testimonial of "ripeness," every learned profession is closed to them, and three years' military drill instead of one is their doom As the boy goes to school be passes the barrack yard or the Plais where the recruits are drilling. He sees them posturing, goose-- stepping, tumbling, fencing, marching, in mud or snow, and he thinks. "I shall have three years of this unless I work," and it acts as a daily stimulus to exertion. BURMAH AND THE BURMESE.

The Burmese are a very interesting and sociable race, fair in complexion, short, stout well-proportioned, brave, and bospitable, es pecially to strangers, whom they entertain free of charge. The men tatoo themselve with an indelible tint : their dress, being smaller, is not so bandsome or graceful a the garments of India. The various titles of the nobility are not hereditary. Educa- Herminetion is fairly advanced considering the state Roderick Hay Dec. 11 Nicholson of the nation as regards other matters. Everyone is supposed to be able to read and write; palm leaves and books of ivory leaves supplying the place of paper, which is difficult to obtain. The literature consists of songs and chronological histories. Budd. Burmah; the education of the people is entirely in the hands of the priests; formerly there were priestesses, but this order has been since abolished. Everything is at the disposal of the king, who is lord of the life of the tall, thick bluestem, and the flame ments-are perhaps the most surprising in and property of all his subjects. He has Tung ting orders are issued : many of the laws are very good, but the punishments are sometimes exceedingly cruel. The standing army is small, and composed of infantry with a small body of cavalry, but these are very inferior and badly equipped:
